Cannot get renderObject of inactive element.

In order for an element to have a valid renderObject, it must be active, which means it is part of the tree. Instead, this element is in the _ElementLifecycle.inactive state.

If you called this method from a State object, consider guarding it with State.mounted.

The findRenderObject() method was called for the following element:

PorsikTourTarget

stack:

#۰ Element.findRenderObject.<anonymous closure>
